

dbhr

DAILY BUSINESS REVIEW

7 Cases to Watch in 2020

By Raychel Lean

December 26, 2019

6. Coral gables personal injury attorney and founding shareholder at Boyers Law Group, Robert Boyers, anticipates the state court's response to a case that asks whether and under what circumstances a hospital should be held liable for the negligence of a supposed independent contractor. The justices are expected to clarify how far a hospital's non-negligible duty to provide certain types of medical services should stretch a lawsuit brought by the family of a woman who died after an allegedly botched “butt lift” procedure by an independent contractor. “The court’s ruling will have a significant impact on a patient’s ability to be justly compensated when seriously injured by medical malpractice that takes place in a hospital setting,” Boyers said.

The case is Guillermor Tabraue III v. Doctors Hospital Inc.